This Anlibrum serves a double purpose—to present a complete history of a year of school life and to celebrate two centenaries that are important milestones in the world of printing. These are the five-hundredth anniversary of the printing press and the three-hundredth anniversary of the first book printed in the United States.

In keeping with the journalistic idea, the staff chose "The Inquiring Reporter" as the theme for this year book. Our imaginary and nosey little reporter, Herkimer (nickname, Herky) was kept quite busy hunting up newspaper terms, seeing that the staff did the tasks assigned to them, checking write-ups, holding conferences with the printer and engraver; and, in his spare time, making himself generally useful.

Herky and the staff hope that you will thoroughly enjoy — The 1940 Anlibrum.

The Elmhurst Advance entered its ninth year of publication under the direction of Miss Pauline Holl. After the mid-year examinations, Miss Dorothy McComb took over. The Advance inaugurated a program of gradual change for the paper with the slavedrivers, Calvin Deam and Barbara Alden, in charge. Jeannie Summers collected articles. Joyce Sonner eliminated from the copy the mistakes of the much-picked-upon reporters.

The Advance has become an institution at Elmhurst; but as every institution has a financial problem, the Advance has, too. This problem, however, did not worry many, for the Advance had an able business staff under the guidance of Mr. Howard Wisner with Louis Lepper and David Coil as road bosses.

The Advance, having received International First Place, is now bidding for highest place in the annual Quill and Scroll judging of high school papers.

The 1940 Anlibrum was "edited and re-edited and compiled and de-compiled," (see Miss Falls) by an all-school staff of students with journalistic leanings.

This plan for gathering statistics is new to Elmhurst and has made for increased accuracy and speed in editing. The Anlibrum gratefully owes its being to the senior salesmen and to the business staff led by Louis Lepper and Wendell Fusselman.

Others of Herky's helpers were: M. Grepke, ass't news editor; L. Ankenbruck, A. Keller, B. Tarr, A. de la Motte, J. Monce, copy-readers; P. Oyer, make-up editor; L. J. Foltz, feature editor; P. J. Scott, C. Cohagen, feature writers; H. Mason, exchange editor; R. Ellison, headline editor; M. Pond, society and alumni editor; J. Beltz, sports editor; D. Rogers, W. James, P. Oyer, sports writers. On the business staff were: F. Pontius, N. Sessions, L. Meyer, R. Leatherman, B. Fair, V. Foulks, M. Jenkins, B. Tarr, L. Henry, M. Merrill, J. Belschner. The persevering typists were M. Holle, G. Deahl, B. Stauffer, L. Crick, M. Brim, P. Rabel, B. Miller.

At the annual Banquet, Herky applauded those who won Advance Awards: C. Deam, L. Lepper, J. Sonner, L. J. Foltz, B. Alden, J. Beltz, J. Summers, F. Pontius and D. Coil. W. Fusselman and L. J. Foltz received Quill and Scroll memberships.

On November 30, Herky, with notebook in hand, perched himself on a comfortable chair in the school gym to witness the annual senior play. Herky's notes revealed the following facts: "The story involved the ownership of two small town newspapers; and when all the casualties and romances were summed up, a grand, hilarious feast of fun was presented in the form of "A Cheerful Little Earful."

The cast, directors and manager included J. Snyder, V. Foulks, M. Merrill, J. Beltz, R. Shaefer, C. Deam, G. Deahl, A. Cox, F. Sutorius, Miss Falls, L. Crick, L. J. Foltz, W. Sarasien, and C. Horn.

"it was a hard fight, ma, but we won."

On the afternoon of May 24, fifty-four graduates and their sponsor clustered about Herky who was frantically listing senior activities.

Soon after the seniors had renewed old acquaintances, they elected officers, who, with Miss Falls, kept the dogwatch on the senior calendar of events.

On October 14, Herky enjoyed the music of Lowell Meyers' orchestra and the colorful carnival decorations of the "Senior Fiesta."

Herky bent a willing ear to the comedy, "A Cheerful Little Earful," presented by the seniors November 30.

After much cramming, the seniors passed their first semester exams. Then, Herky and his staff began work on the Anlibrum. However, on February 14, they took time off to exchange Valentines.

The childish antics of April 26 were not those of some stray grade school children but just the seniors frolicking on their annual Kid Day. By the night of April 27, the seniors, discarding their childish regalia and dressing in formal togs, were "cheek-to-cheeking" in "Little America," the guests of the juniors.

With comic strips as the theme, the graduates turned out for a semi-formal banquet May 11 in the Old Fort Room of the Indiana Hotel.

Doning caps and gowns, they heard Rev. William N. Vincent's baccalaureate sermon on May 19.

On May 23 at 7 o'clock, the class of '40 rubbed the sleep out of their eyes and joined the faculty at breakfast.

"And now," said Prexy Windy, "that you've heard Mr. Herbert Willis' address, "Life's Widest Horizon," turn in your caps and gowns."

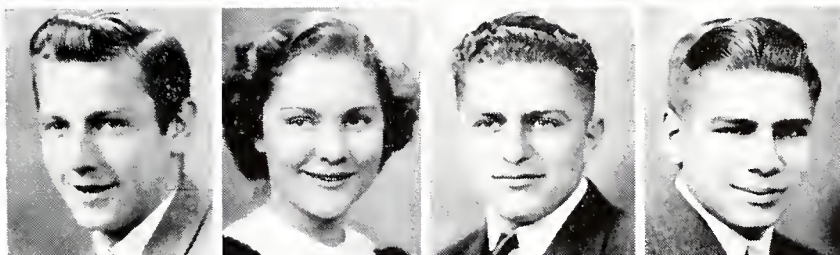

Amid the congratulations and exhibiting of graduation presents, Herky slipped away to write in detail the history of the year.

Since my nose was beginning to twitch for more news, I called on the Junior Class and their sponsor, Miss Jean Adamson. There was a class meeting in session; so I listened to the class officers: Fred Link, president; Jack Wilkie, vice-president; Dorothy Jane Lehman, treasurer; and Betty Fair, secretary, in a private discussion of their favorite sundae. I introduced myself to the group and asked for the news of the class.

Without further ado, they told me all about the class activities for the year. They started the year off right by giving a Hard Times Party.

The good news spread that the Juniors led the semester honor roll with fifteen members: Barbara Alden, Catherine Beerman, David Coil, Lorene Dammeyer, Roger Ellison, Mary Jenkins, Dorothy Lehman, Harold Mason, Joyce Monce, Veronica Rulka, Dorothy Schweppe, Phyllis J. Scott, Joyce Sonner, Jeanne Summers, and Norma Sutorius.

Room 6, the home of the Juniors, also won the Magazine Campaign honors. Maurice Stoller was high salesman with 22 sales; Room 6 sold 170 subscriptions.

There was a total of twenty-one E's among the Juniors. The G. A. A. letter girls were: Ruth Lunz, Dorothy Lehman, Ruth Stolte, Ruth Ann Emerick, Maxyne Grepke, Phyllis J. Scott, Barbara Alden, Pauline Beck, and Adine Gebhart. The athletic lettermen were: Fred Link, Charles Coleman, Bob Capin and Arnold Greider; Rifle Club: Adine Gebhart, Norman Sessions, and Dale Rogers; Band: Harold Mason and Tom Braeuer; Debate: Jack Wilkie, David Coil and Raymond Fisher. Raymond Fisher and Ruth Lunz represented the Juniors in the Booster Club.

Special honors this year were awarded to several Juniors. Bob Capin was elected to the N. A. H. A. and Dorothy Lehman, Joyce Monce, Roger Ellison, and Harold Mason were elected to the N. H. S.

Breathless, they paused, but not for long; then came the big news, the Junior Prom. Adine Gebhart was elected Prom Queen and her attendants were Maxyne Grepke, Betty Fair, Jeanne Summers, Ruth Lunz, Ruth Ann Emerick, and Joyce Monce. "Little America" was the decorative theme which was carried out with icebergs, penguins, and murals depicting the beauties of the South Pole.

The chairmen of the various committees were: decoration, Jack Wilkie; orchestra, Dale Rogers; invitations, Jeanne Summers; programs, Ruth Lunz; and refreshments, Maxyne Grepke. The music, lights, lovely gowns and the grand march delighted me.

The sophomore class, sponsored by Miss Auman, held their first meeting in October and elected officers for this year. They chose John Baker to preside at their meetings and Don Hower as his assistant. The keeper of the minutes was Frieda Schoeneman, and Robert Coleman took charge of whatever money they had.

Following the usual custom, they chose a skating party at Bell's Rink for their first semester activity. It was held on December 2, and after all the thrills and spills, it was discovered that financially they had come out on top. Tom Foltz and Lois Schneider had charge of all the ticket sales.

Fourteen students, Ruth Felmlee, Tom Foltz, Ireta Grush, Donnabel Loveless, Betty Mason, Paul Oyer, Eugene Pontius, Lois Schneider, Frieda Schoeneman, Phyllis M. Scott, Betty Slater, Margaret Tenhaeff, Anna Wise, and Melvin Zelt earned a place on the first semester honor roll.

Of the ninety-six members in the class, forty were athletes. Joe Rowan and Gilbert Millhouse received their letter sweaters. Don Hower, Gilbert Millhouse, Bob Coleman, Paul Oyer, Joe Rowan, and Raymond Beebe played on the softball squad. These six besides Bob Parkison, John Baker, and Rolland Leatherman played on the second team. Sixteen members of the class were on intramural basketball teams. The members of the G. A. A. were Pat McCoy, Connie Kumfer, Miriam Pond, Barbara Miller, Frieda Schoeneman, Margaret Christle, Betty Mutton, Bette Kahlenbeck, Lois Schneider, Phyllis M. Scott, Babe Robinson, Joana Kahlenbeck, Betty Mason, Lou Ann Hardisty, and Marjorie Cox. For two years C. Kumfer and B. Miller have been majorettes in the band.

In September '39 the "greenies" entered a new and exciting adventure—high school. They chose Lynn Henry as president; Hope Miller, vice-president; and Lavonne Anson, as secretary-treasurer to guide them and keep them on the right track. Mr. Wisner became their sponsor. They were to have a Skating Party at Bell's Skating Rink, but 0° weather froze them out, and it was postponed until April 13. A class party was held in the school gym February 17. Games were played and refreshments served. Eleven freshmen were on the first semester Honor Roll. They included: Paul Bailey, Marian Draggo, Donna Foltz, Juanita Foltz, Margaret Lunz, Donald Schmidt, James Sarasien, Jean Weist, and the officers, Lynn Henry, Hope Miller, and Lavonne Anson.

Forty-two freshmen helped to earn money for school assemblies by selling one hundred twenty-eight magazines. This tops the record ever made by freshmen. The leading sales were made by: Lynn Henry, Ruth Mary Beck, Jerry Clausen, James Keller, Verlin Stoller, Jean Clapesattle, Hope Miller, Margaret Lunz, Mabel Leonard, Lottie Kline, Juanita Foltz, Donald Schmidt, and Dorothy Vogts. The freshmen on the Advance Staff included: Jean Mulligan, Donna Foltz, Betty Millhouse, Hope Miller, Juanita Foltz, Mabel Leonard, Phyllis Roe, Lynn Henry, and Wayne James. Bill Deuter, Norman McDevitt, Jack Belschner and Ray Mutton were the freshmen athletes. Juanita Foltz and Paul Bailey represented the freshmen in Booster Club. Donald Schmidt was the only freshman in the cast of "Why the Chimes Rang," presented by the Glee Club before Christmas.

We have them and we support them; and there is, besides the pleasure derived by the members of the clubs, much value received from the various extra-curricular activities.

Herky here presents the outstanding activities that have taken place in the home of the Trojans.

"Commentator Herky brings to you the opening session of the Northeastern Indiana Teachers' Convention at the Shrine Theatre. Here's that fine Elmhurst High School Band garbed in scarlet and gray Besides playing at all of Elmhurst's games in the county and sectional tourneys, the band played at five home basketball games. Last summer they marched in Concordia's One-hundredth Anniversary Parade, and they participated in the annual Armistice Day Parade.

As usual, the Elmhurst Band, directed by Mr. Fryback, earned high honors in the district, state, and national contests. The district contests were held at Berne and Huntington on March 20 and 30, respectively; the state contests were at Elkhart and Whiting on April 6 and May 4; and the national contest was held from May 16-18 at Battle Creek, Michigan.

The officers this year were R. Fisher, president; N. Millhouse, vice-president; and P. McCoy, secretary-treasurer. L. Lepper was the assistant conductor, T. Braeuer was the drum major, and B. Miller and C. Kumfer were again the twirlers.

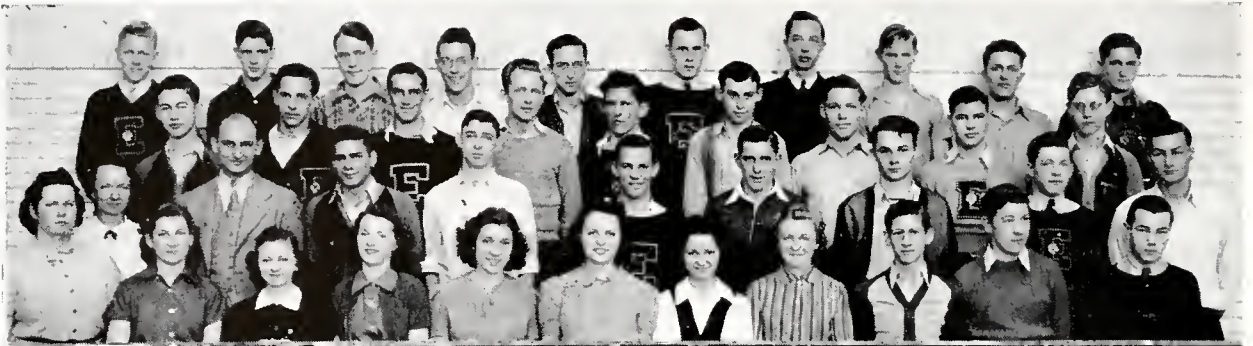

The band was made up of 43 instruments, which included 14 clarinets, 6 trumpets, 5 saxophones, 3 trombones, 3 snare drums, 2 cornets, 2 flutes, 2 baritone, 2 bass horns, 1 bass clarinet, 1 bass drum, 1 French horn, and 1 oboe. They practiced almost daily during the forty-minute period in the gymnasium, and all received individual instruction during two additional periods every week.

On Sunday, February 4, they presented their annual public concert in the school auditorium. Included in the program were four marches, four classical selections, and four popular numbers.

Last year the band placed second in division B in the district contest. The saxophone sextet, comprised of Donald Stute, Bob Parkison, Louie Lepper, Nelson Millhouse, and two '39 graduates, Doris March and Wyllis Wiegman, again copped first honors in district, state, and national contests. Tom Braeuer, Harold Mason, Dick Fisher, and Max Buskirk, the clarinet quartet, gained first in the district and second in the state. In solo competition, D. Fisher and D. Stute received first ratings, while P. McCoy and A. Cox earned second honors in the district. D. Stute also earned first place in both state and national contests. B. Miller and C. Kumfer gained first honors in twirling in the state contests.

Phy-Chem Club Plays Up Tours and Fun

Front Row: G. Deahl, M. Holle, J. Monce, P. J. Scott, B. Cox, C. Horn, W. Sarasien, P. Huguenell, P. Craff, C. Allison, W. Becraft.

PHY-CHEM OFFICERS: Phy-Chem's workshop; Making an experiment; President Wilkie; Secretary Sarasien; Buddies; Chem instructor; Forum Club.

Little Herky was kept mighty busy running hither and yon taking notes on the various trips and activities of the Phy-Chem Club. He first sharpened his pencil on September 12 to record the result of the election of officers. His notes revealed that those elected were: Jim Beltz, president; Bob Shaefer, vice-president; Wanda Sarasien, secretary-treasurer.

When Herky returned to Fort Wayne on November 12, although worn out, he had much to tell about the two day session at the Junior Academy of Science at Terre Haute. Twenty-two members; Miss Wimmer, Mr. Wisner, sponsors; and Herbert Dautz, the bus driver, attended the meeting. James Beltz was secretary of the academy and Jack Wilkie was elected president for the coming year. Jack's death March 20 was a great loss to the club and to his schoolmates.

The trips that were taken in October, December, February, April, and May, were well planned by D. Connett, P. J. Scott, M. Merrill, D. Rogers, and G. Deahl. Many a spill was taken by Herky on January 13 when the club sponsored a skating party at Bell's Rink. Movies about oil were shown to the club and their guests, the Commercial Club, in March.

The biggest event of the year, the Phy-Chem Fun Fest, was held on March 29 with Carl Hollman acting as master of ceremonies. An orchestra composed of Roland Hille, Louise Lepper, Raymond Fisher, Harold Mason, Tom Foltz, Tom Braeuer, Donald Stute, Roger Ellison, Max Buskirk, and Nelson Millhouse furnished music for dancing. There were so many waiters, including Mr. Wisner, the singing waiter, and other entertainers running about that Herky thought he was in a real night club.

Debaters Prepare Future and Date Book

Standing: R. McQueen, D. Coil, R. Fisher, J. Wilkie, Miss McComb.

Sitting: B. Coil, D. Miller, M. Pond, Margaret Cox, D. Loveless.

"We work hard and what do we get?" groaned the members of the Forum Club. "We look up facts in musty old books and slave getting them in order and then the judge falls for the opposing team's looks so we lose." The teams this year have the knowledge, though, that they have compiled enough statistics on railroads to build one—almost—as their subject was "Government Control of Railroads."

The officers of the club, Jack Wilkie, David Coil, and Raymond Fisher, all agreed that the tea dances and parties seemed to go over better than the debates did. The Forum Club holds great promise for the coming year with a new subject and experienced debaters. Letters were awarded by Miss McComb to David Coil, Jack Wilkie, Donnabel Loveless, Margaret Cox, and Raymond Fisher.

Memo in Herky's notebook—Visit shop during noon hour on November 22, the day before "President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving." There Herky found the Industrial Arts Club holding their only social event of the year—a turkey, chicken, and rabbit dinner. Presiding were: Mr. L. L. Brumit, adviser; Roland Hille, president; James Shaefer, vice-president; and Bob Kahlenbeck, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the club is to acquaint the boys with jobs in various factories where shop is applied. By bringing the students in contact with some of the different types of jobs, they hope to help them decide their chosen occupation. The club usually goes in a body to two different factories, one a semester, as their activity. This year they visited the Magnavox Company and the Joslyn Steel Mills.

Eight Home Makers Receive Thimbles

Top Row: E. Strahm, B. Mascn, C. Beerman, M. Dove, A. de la Motte, L. J. Foltz, B. Hawk.

Third Row: M. Holle, R. Fields, B. M. Miller, P. Rabel, M. Christle, D. Graft, L. Crick, V. Rulka, J. Summers, M. Pond.

Fourth Row: Miss Simon, E. Johnson, A. Gebhart, W. Sarasien, M. Leonard, D. Foltz, P. Beck, M. Ankenbruck, L. Ankenbruck.

Kneeling: A. Forschner, J. Foltz, G. Langmeyer, J. Paxson, J. Monce.

For two months, Herky had to be especially careful of his manners for the Home Ec. Club sponsored its schoolwide "Etiquette Campaign." When these Regina Domi weren't busy using the proper spoon and fork Herky learned that L. Ankenbruck was their president; L. J. Foltz, vice-president; A. Gebhart, secretary; W. Sarasien, treasurer; L. Crick, student adviser; and Miss Simon, faculty adviser.

The falls Herky took at the skating party on October 20 were overshadowed by the fun. On December 23, Herky had the honor of being one of the boys invited to the Christmas Party and heartily enjoyed the pre-leap year frolic.

Herky's "spies" reported that the three main events of the banquet on April 16 were the revealing of "peanut sisters," installation of new officers, and the presentation of silver thimbles to those graduates who had been club members for four years: L. Ankenbruck, L. Crick, A. de la Motte, L. J. Foltz, D. Graft, M. Holle, B. Miller, and W. Sarasien. The banquet decorations were the work of P. Rabel, D. Foltz, M. Ankenbruck, and J. Foltz. The kitchen committee: J. Monce, W. Sarasien, D. Feighner, J. Paxson, G. Langmeyer, P. Beck, M. Holle, and J. Summers were responsible for the appetizing food served. Entertainment was planned by M. Pond, M. Leonard, and D. Lopshire; hostesses were L. Ankenbruck, L. Crick, L. J. Foltz, and A. Gebhart.

Herky's trusty little notebook revealed that the girls received much in the way of fun and social grace through membership and participation in Regina Domi.

Service Groups Enjoy Helping Others

Lehman, D. Woodard, V. Gebhart, L. Ankenbruck, H. Epple, D. Fisher, and Mr. Eickhoff.

Herky equipped himself this year with another notebook to record the "doings" of the newly-organized Junior Red Cross Club sponsored by Miss Wimmer. Helping others was the main aim of the club. They donated three Thanksgiving and three Christmas baskets to the poor, and also sponsored a collection for the Chinese. Money for the baskets was raised by a Tea Dance held in December. A committee consisting of M. Lunz, A. Wise, R. M. Beck, R. McQueen, and C. Buskirk made favors each month to be sent to various hospitals and institutions. The officers of the club were C. Deam, president; P. Beck, vice-president; and J. Summers, secretary-treasurer.

Another new group was the Booster Club, sponsored by Miss Auman. The members were selected for leadership, initiative, and cooperation. They helped to boost any and all Trojan activities. On March 26, they gave a Tea Dance. Later in the year, they enjoyed a pot luck supper in the school kitchen. W. Fusselman, H. Stoops, F. Sutorius, and P. McCoy piloted the club.

Eight assembly programs were financed by the student sale of magazines, directed by Mr. Eickhoff. M. Stoller and M. Holle sold over forty magazines. In addition to the individual prizes, those selling five or more magazines were feted at a party. Herky enjoyed eating cake and ice-cream with this peppy group, most of whom were juniors.

E Club and Lettermen Sponsor Dance

"E, E, E, and E," the staff heard Herky shout. Was he taking an eye examination? No, only counting the many members of the E Club as they passed by in their scarlet letter sweaters.

On February 9, Herky attended the first meeting of the E and Lettermen Clubs. While he was admiring the athletes, debaters, marksmen, and musicians, the group elected Melvin Sheets, president; Charles Coleman, vice-president; and Adine Gebhart, secretary-treasurer. Plans were made for the annual dance and committees were appointed.

Herky and his girl friend enjoyed talking to the 1940 E's and also to the alumni E's at the reunion dance given on April 6. The sport decorations and blaze of red sweaters made this a colorful affair. Former athletes, especially, held many "remember when" conversations.

Finally Herky's curiosity overcame him so he rounded up the sponsors, Miss Adamson, Miss McComb, Mr. Eickhoff, Mr. Fryback, and Mr. Snider and found out how the Trojans and Trojanettes had merited that coveted "E".

Staggering under a load of notebooks and muttering to himself, "How I wish I could find some typists," Herky stumbled wearily into Room 5. There, amid the busy click of typewriters, he found several willing typists and other commercial-minded students. As proof of their efficiency, he saw many names listed under bronze medals for typing forty words per minute, silver for fifty words and gold for sixty words. These typists cheerfully relieved Herky of his notebooks and set to work.

Seeing Herky beam at his assistants, W. Fusselman, president, introduced him to the other officers: D. Lehman, vice-president; A. Gebhart, treasurer; E. Swank, secretary; and Miss Auman, sponsor.

"Do you always work so hard?" asked Herky.

"Oh, no! We have plenty of fun," chorused the advanced shorthand class.

After Miss Auman had stilled the girlish outburst, Herky learned that the Commercial Club had roasted wieners and hunted for treasure on October 6. They made a truce with work by skating November 11. On December 28, they held a Christmas exchange at Ruth Lunz's home. February was memorable for a tour of the News-Sentinel and another skating spill and pick-up.

By this time Herky had made himself so charming that the banquet committee invited him to their annual dinner. F. Schoeneman, L. J. Foltz, P. McCoy and P. Rabel promised him clever decorations and place cards; R. Ellison, L. Lepper, M. Grepke, G. B. May, and J. Beltz showered him with plans for entertainment.

Grateful for the typist's aid and promising to join them on April 11, Herky cheerfully went on to his next assignment.

"Do, Re, Mi, Fa, So, La, Ti, Do," Herky listened. There is was again — "Do, Re, Mi, Fa, . . ." "Am I in an opera house?" he wondered. Finally Herky entered Room 8 and sat down to listen. Miss Adamson, sponsor, asked if he were joining the Glee Club. After explaining that he regretted he couldn't join because he had too much Anlibrum work, he began his "third degree" of this large organization. Herky's introduction to the officers, Alyce Anson, president; Carl Allison, vice-president; Dorothy Gutmann, secretary-treasurer; and Dorothy Jane Lehman, accompanist, soon followed.

Upon further questioning, Herky discovered that the club stopped long enough on November 18 to have a party. On December 20, the group presented its annual Christmas Cantata of Christmas hymns and a playlet, "Why the Chimes Rang." In the cast were J. Wilkie, D. Schmidt, C. Deam, D. Stapleton, K. Ford, A. de la Motte, P. J. Scott, C. Allison, J. Fogwell, H. Yovan, and A. Keller. The songs by the choir included "The Shepherds", "The Angel Choir", "The Three Wise Men", Chorale — "Into the Town of Bethlehem", "The Manger", and "Christmas Dawn". Soloist Miriam Pond sang "Cantique de Noel". The group also displayed its talent at the baccalaureate exercises held May 19.

"Trojans Win In Thriller," "G. A. A. Organizes Volleyball Teams," "Rifle Club Wins Over Opponents," "Lettermen Sponsor Annual Dance," "Varsity Wins Hard-Earned Victory" — such headlines fill Herky's trusty notebook. Reading on, we can see all the sport's events replayed before our very eyes; so, being in a good mood, we decided to let you in on our own little picture gallery—The Sports Section.

Red and Gray Hardwood Heroes

34 "Fuzz" Fusselman — veteran center completed his fourth year on the varsity with a blaze of glory, sparking the Trojans' offense when the going got tough with under the basket tip ins. Red was also a stalwart on defense, using his superior height to block opponent's shots.

55 "Art" Sheets — "Remember the Hartford Twp. tilt" in which Art with accurate sniping scored 23 points. "Powerhouse's specialty was a long angle shot from the side of the court which cut the net with uncanny accuracy. This was his last net campaign.

44 Fred Link — leading scorer of the Red and Gray contingent with 186 points and a member of the All County Team. "Woppo" was the ball hawk of the team, being in on every play and with his ability to snag rebounds was a great asset to his teammates. He will perform on the hardwood again next year.

88 "Mel" Sheets — fastest player on the squad and a deceptive dribbler. Although playing back-guard, a strictly defensive position, Mel countered nearly 100 points and drew the enemies defense out with his long arching shots. He received a berth on the All County Second Team and will be difficult to replace.

11 "Vernie" Foulks — veteran varsity performer completed his third year on the bucket brigade. Vernie caused his opponents no little trouble with his left-handed hook shots sunk with machine-like precision from the corner.

"Dagwood," a bulwark on defense was always assigned one of the leading scorers of the opposing quintet.

22 "Nel" Millhouse — last of the seniors and although not a starter was a reliable substitute, and saw plenty of action. Nel hit most of his buckets while cutting under the hoop. His cool head was a valuable asset to the team.

66 "Toughie" Greider — cleverest ball handler on the squad, and a good shot from any spot. With the experience gained this year, he will cause the Trojans' foes plenty of headaches next year.

00 "Bob" Capin — diminutive junior balances his lack of height with speed and sensational sniping. Much will be expected of "Rooster" next season.

77 "Hank" Epple — dependable substitute and member of the junior class has only one more year of varsity competition.

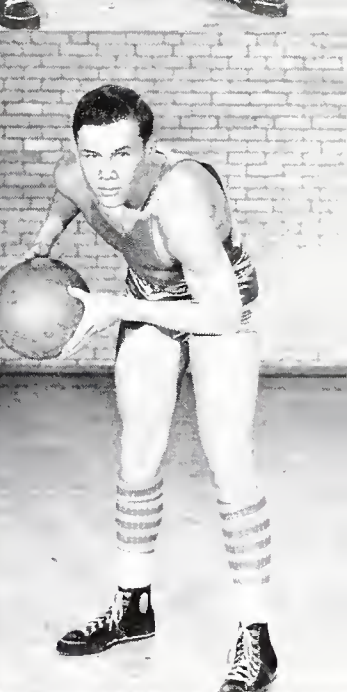

99 "Ernie" Hausman — elongated 6' 2" junior whose height gives him a decided under the basket advantage needs only confidence to become a star court performer.

Coach Snider — too much credit cannot be paid to "Bud" who mentored his team through a successful campaign of 15 wins and 8 setbacks against tough competition. Well-liked by the team and student body, Mr. Snider has an enviable record after completing two years at the helm of the Elmhurst court destiny.

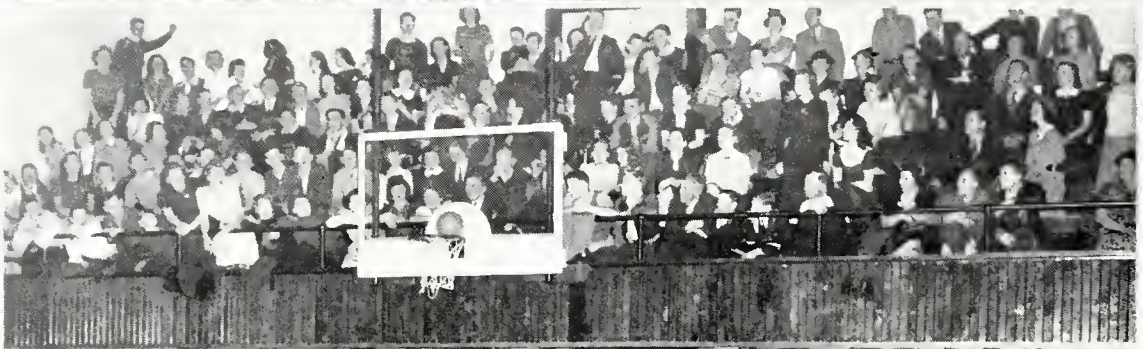

Roland Hille — the forgotten man, was the custodian of the team's fighting togs and equipment. "Rollie" as student manager was instrumental in the Red and Gray's success.

Barbara Miller and Miriam Pond — exponents of vim, vigor and vitality, led the student body with incessant yells of encouragement for the Snidermen — win, lose or draw.

As the above record indicates, the Trojan Seconds, coached by Mr. Fryback, had a highly successful season. The Jay Vees captured 14 of the 18 games played, winning 78 per cent of their contests. After opening their schedule with a 20-18 double overtime victory from the Hoagland Wildcats, and losing to Leo, the reserves won their next three contests, before being stopped by Woodburn and New Haven. Huntertown was barely nosed out 21-18, and then Leo's Lionites were dumped by the seconds 17-7. Seven opponents bit the dust before the Ossian Cubs smote the Frybackmen 22-11 in the last contest of the year. Back to the Ossian fracas, only trailing 12-11 at the three quarter mark, the seconds encountered an impenetrable defence and were held scoreless while the Cubs were pouring five fielders through the hoop. Woodburn and Leo were dropped in return games, thus avenging the earlier season scores suffered at their hands. The highlight of the Trojammer's campaign was a 22-20 setback that they handed Central Catholic's reserves. As much natural ability and drive prevails in these boys, the Trojan Varsity future looks very bright.

"Well," said Herky, "look at that gleaming Dickens' Trophy held by the Rifle Club this year for winning the Allen County Rifle Match April 1, 1939. No jinx vented his rage on the Trojan Sharpshooters even if the match was held on Fool's Day and even if Mr. Eickhoff, sponsor, is keeper of the jug." The '38-'39 Rifle squad also won first place in the state bi-weekly contests and seventh in the national matches in B division. K. Scott, P. Johnson, P. Venderly, M. Merrill, and B. Haller were the winning team.

In eleven rifle matches this year, the club had an average score between 486-491. They met with stiff competition from such teams as Ossian Conservation Club, Arcola Aces, Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver Club, Fort Wayne Sport Club, South Side Archers, and Three Rivers Rifle Club.

The officers were: president, M. Merrill; vice-president, H. Forschner; secretary-treasurer, A. Gebhart. The purpose of the Rifle Club is to teach safety in the handling of a gun, to encourage good marksmanship, to provide sport, and to offer social opportunities.

I, Herky, was wandering down the hall. Hearing shrieks of laughter, I peeked into the gym and saw some girls playing badminton. Hastily donning my Jane Doe disguise, I entered the gym and introduced myself to the girl's leader, Miss Jean Adamson.

She greeted me happily and introduced me to the club officers, Pauline Beck, president; Adine Gebhart, vice-president; Ruth Lunz, secretary-treasurer; Frieda Schoeneman, unorganized sports leader; Dorothy Lehman, organized sports leader; and Phyllis J. Scott, sports writer.

Last year ten girls attended the G. A. A. State Play Day at Hammond. K. Scott, R. Pond, E. Huston, and F. Schneck received plaques. In December 1939, ten more girls attended the Kendallville Play Day and are looking forward to State Play Day in May.

Officers: D. Lehman, P. J. Scott, F. Schoeneman, Miss Adamson, R. Lunz.

For social activities, the girls enjoyed a Tea Dance and a Skating Party. Baseball, volleyball, basketball, deck tennis, tumbling, and badminton in organized groups have kept them fit and netted them points.

In groups or singly many of the girls have also gained points for letters by dancing, swimming, becoming life savers, hiking, shooting with the Rifle Club, bicycling, ice skating, roller skating, and playing ping-pong and tennis. Ruth Lunz, Ruth Stolte, Barbara Alden, Dorothy Lehman, Ruth Ann Emrick, Phyllis J. Scott, Miriam Pond, Barbara Miller, Maxyne Grepke, Pauline Beck, and Adine Gebhart received G. A. A. letters this year.

Miss Adamson explained that the club promoted sportsmanship, friendship, and developed the girls mentally and physically. Gazing at the girls, I clearly saw that G. A. A. had accomplished its purpose.

Yes, Herky, these are the Lettermen who totaled 180 points in one or several varsity sports. They are also members of the E Club (see page 34).

Sluggers End Season with 7-4 Score

Herky, chief mixer-upper of the Trojan sluggers, survived seven of the battles and hit the canvas four times. "Starting with a flash and ending with a blackeye," summarizes the Frybackmen's softball season. Off to a hot start, the Red and Gray slugged out 14-8 and 8-0 victories from Leo and Monroeville. Greider hurled a perfect tilt against the Cubs. Arcola put the skids to Elmhurst's win streak, handing them a 12-3 drubbing. This setback was an incentive with New Haven losing 7-6. Hoagland and Huntertown handed the Elmhurstians two defeats by scores of 12-10 and 8-5. Then Lafayette Cental paved the Trojan's way into the finals with a 9-0 victory. In the playoff, the Monroeville Cubs were dropped by a 5-4 count. After holding a 5-3 lead, Elmhurst blew up, handing New Haven the championship and an 11-6 victory.

TO THE SENIORS:

I wish to congratulate the class of 1940 and wish you all the luck in the world.

May you grow to be useful and honorable citizens in your community, wherever it be.

I have enjoyed working with you.

Truly yours,

Jack Wilkie

During spring vacation, the students of Elmburst lost a valued friend — Jack Wilkie. His death left a gap in many circles for he participated in almost every extra-curricular activity at school, the Junior Prom, the Phy-Chem Club, and the Advance. He was secretary and a varsity debater of the Forum Club, president of the Junior Academy of Science and vice-president of the Junior Class. Jack's cheery, gay, and fun-loving personality, combined with excellence in his studies made him a student leader; his dependability obtained for him responsible positions in outside activities. He was a person of whom you were glad to be able to say, "He was a friend of mine . . . a real friend."
